

Virtual Lookbook

Work Café Thought Starters

This work café can pull double duty functioning providing a coffee shop vibe for hybrid workers or serving as a collaboration space for large groups.

What is a Work Café

A Work Café is a dynamic space that connects people with colleagues, their work, and their organization. It transforms traditional corporate cafeteria real estate into destinations for connection, collaboration, focus and innovation.

For companies seeking to create a destination for hybrid workers, work cafés are an excellent amenity to attract employees to the office and foster community.

Renderings

Transform your cafeteria into a welcoming environment designed to foster conversation, brainstorming, hosting, and socializing.

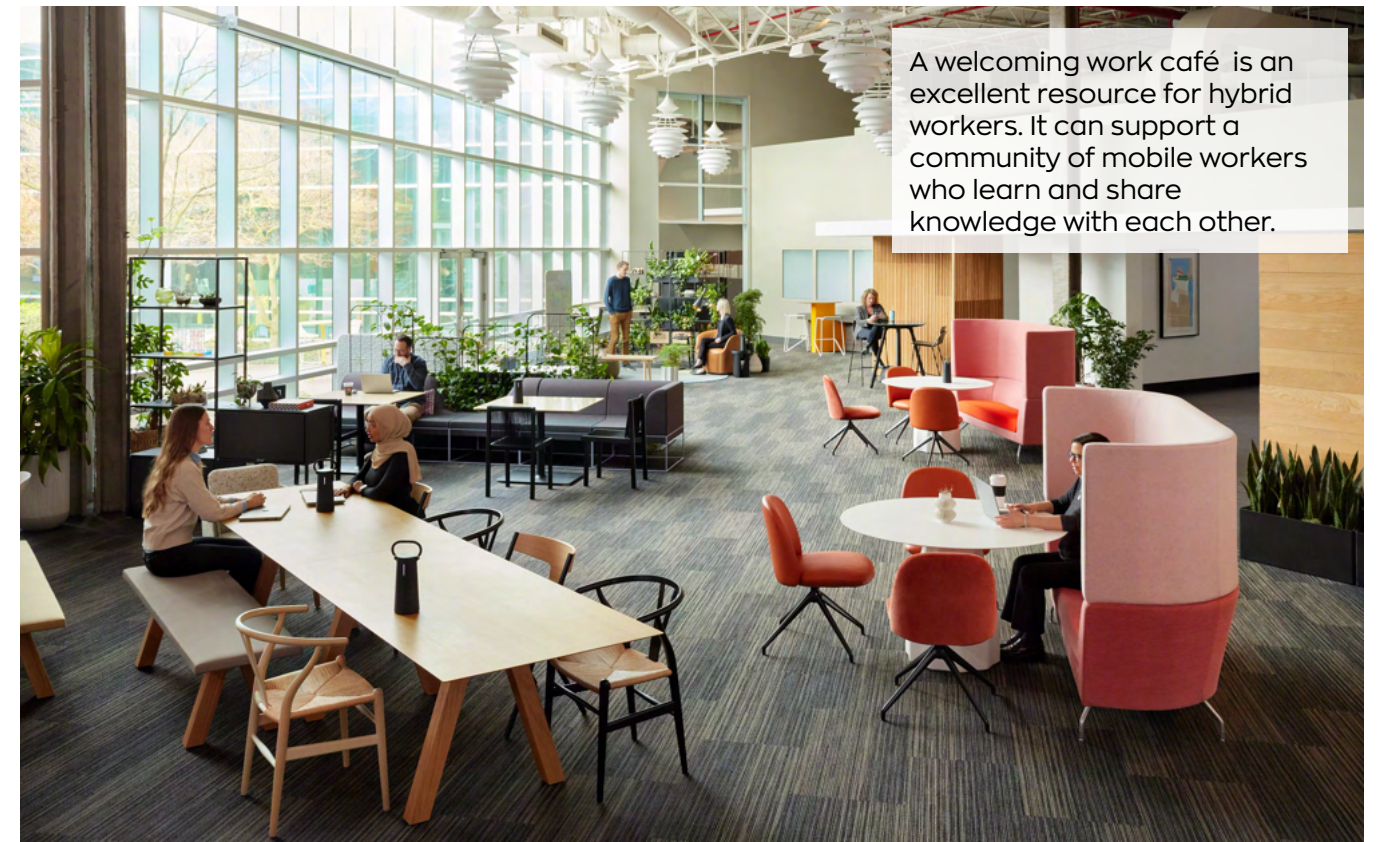

Integrating technology in your work café allows any worker, as an individual or as a group, to work and meet at any place. Access to power, presentation devices, and Wi-Fi is key for success.

Real Spaces

A work café should be welcoming and vibrant. Leverage design attributes that set a welcoming atmosphere and vibrant ambiance, reflecting the desired brand and culture.

Biophilia can have a significant positive impact on employees in a workplace setting as well. Incorporating elements of nature into the design of a workplace can lead to reduced stress, improved cognitive function, increased creativity, better mood and well-being, improved physical health, increased employee satisfaction, and reduced absenteeism.

A welcoming work café is an excellent resource for hybrid workers. It can support a community of mobile workers who learn and share knowledge with each other.

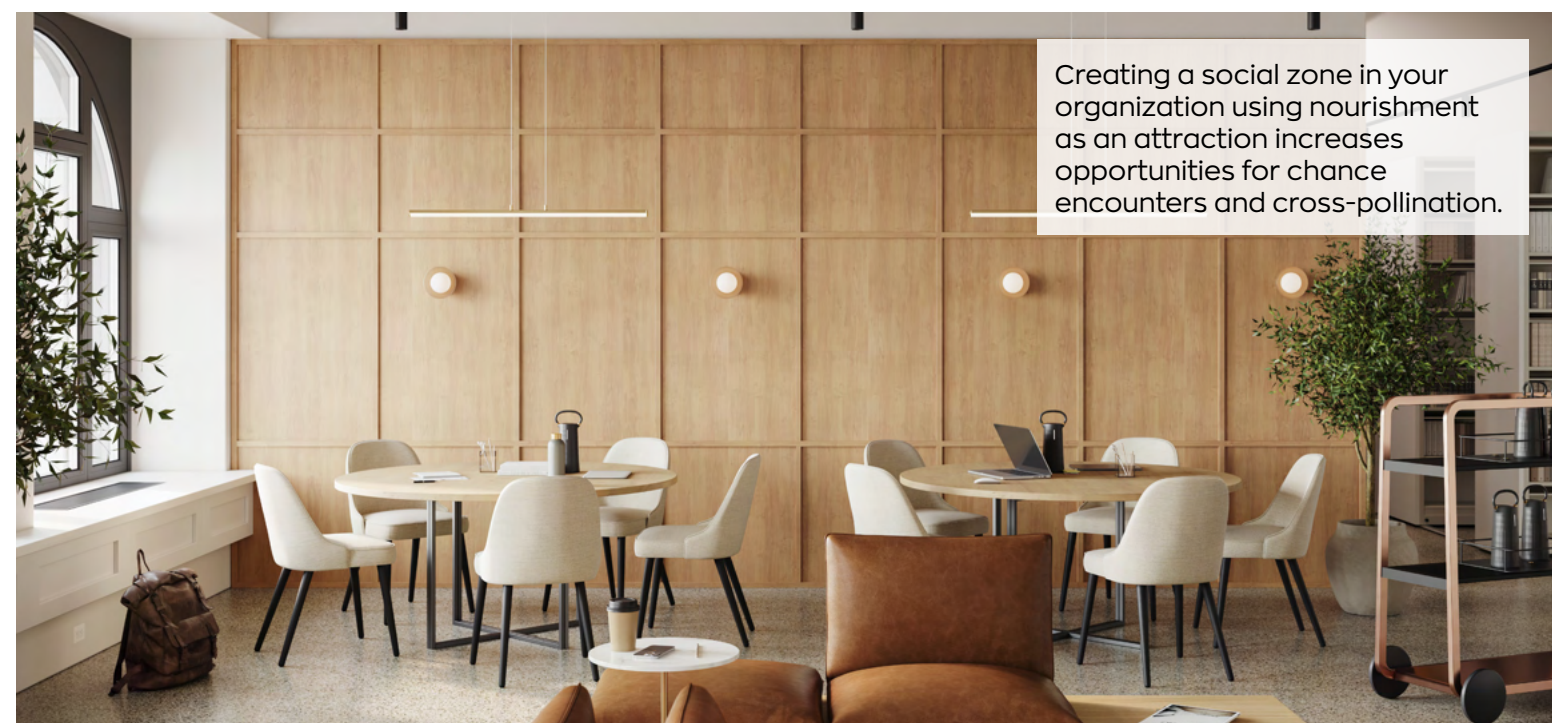

Spaces like these are important because employees who feel connected to their organization and valued are significantly more likely to stay with an organization.

A work café functioning as a meeting commons offers a system of spaces that promotes collaboration, both planned and spontaneous.

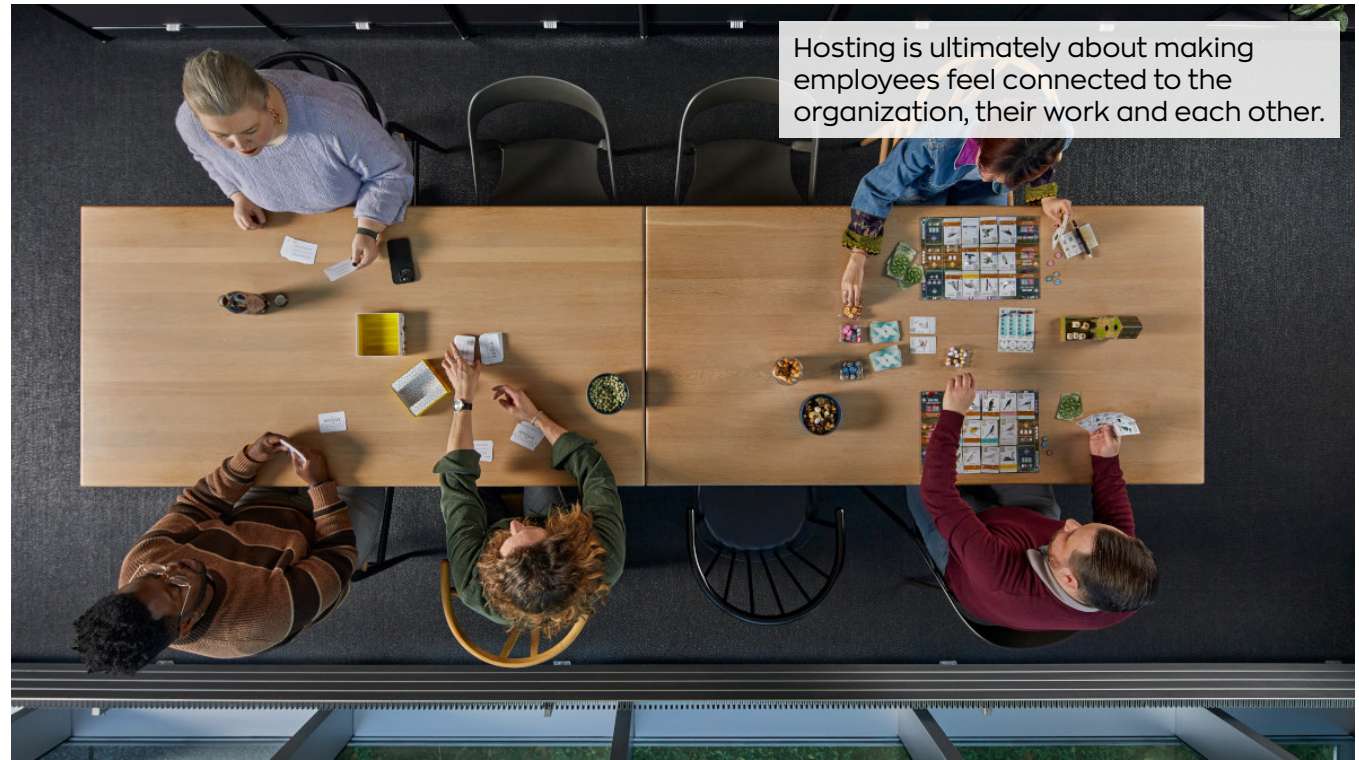

A work café can function as a specialty zone supporting workers with dining amenities and various food options.

Creating a social zone in your organization using nourishment as an attraction increases opportunities for chance encounters and cross-pollination.

The hosting characteristics of your work café can serve as an excellent tool to retain talent.

Hosting is ultimately about making employees feel connected to the organization, their work and each other.

Contact Us

Boise: 208.385.0507
Las Vegas: 702.263.8800
Reno: 775.329.3145